I know not what record of his awaits me in the other world; but this I do know, that I never was so mean as to despise a man because he was poor, because he was ignorant, or because he was black.

AN OUTSIDE JUDGMENT.

We print the following from the Springfield Republican of Sunday last, because it gives a comprehensive statement of our school trouble up to the present time, and connects with it an opinion upon its issues, which, coming from a source outside our own circle of excitement, has the requisite conditions for impartiality. It will be noticed that it sees an outcome of good, as the Transcript had already pointed out, possible from our present ills. It is the wise community, as it is the wise individual, that turns misfortune to account. "Blessed are the uses of adversity," is the famous saying of Kossuth. But this blessing is not given; it has to be earned by effort, and comes only to those who profit by the teachings of experience. The extract follows:

The week just past has been an eventful one in North Adams. During it there has arisen the greatest trouble in school management that the town has ever experienced, and probably never before have the citizens been so aroused over the acts of public officers. It was published quite generally some time since that Mr. Spaulding, principal of the high school, had tendered his resignation to the committee, to take effect at the end of the school year, next month. When it was made public that his resignation had been reconsidered and that the committee had voted to request him to sever his connection with the school, the committee, before his resignation would have taken effect, the pupils of the high school and the citizens in general became indignant. The pupils made all manner of demonstrations. Mr. Spaulding's favor and were supported by the citizens. General discussion on the matter became heated, and all eyes were turned to the committee. The explanation did not come, and a petition demanding one was circulated, generally signed and presented to the committee. The committee made an explanation Thursday which did not seem to satisfy. There was little in it that had not been anticipated. The charges, under the circumstances, could not be considered more than minor charges. Insubordination and negligence covers them generally. The insubordination was shown in the highest degree by Mr. Spaulding not appearing before the committee when called upon, and the negligence was shown in such acts as leaving the rooms for a period as long as forty minutes.

No one acquainted with school discipline and the duty of a principal would say these charges were sufficient to cause a school committee to ask for the resignation of a principal, and moreover, there is hardly one who will agree that the charges are serious enough to cause the dismissal of a principal just five weeks before his resignation would have taken effect. It is generally considered that the committee has made a mistake. Many prominent citizens are enraged alike over the unnecessary smirching of a promising young man's character and the demoralization of the school that has followed the committee's act. There has been talk of taking the committee at its word, by circulating a petition asking for the resignation of each member. It is hoped this will not be done. The committee may have been at fault, as they claim Mr. Spaulding has been, and it would be inconsistent to treat the committee as the committee has treated Mr. Spaulding and because of that treatment. If the occurrence does not injure Mr. Spaulding, who has done much for the high school, it will do good. It may be the means of having the school system improved, and the control of teachers and principal placed with the superintendent.

MISS JACKSON'S LETTER.

We print in this issue a communication from Miss Anna B. Jackson upon our present school trouble. It is evident that a situation we have all long known to be faulty is now to have adequate public consideration. It is characteristic of this town to deal with thoroughness and successfully, when the occasion arises, with any of its public needs. To this end we shall welcome all courteously expressed contributions to the present discussion.

The London, Eng., Saturday Review prints the following fine characterization of Bismarck:

When Englishmen find themselves most nearly agreed as to Oliver Cromwell's place among great Englishmen, they have in their minds a picture of him driving an impotent and foolish Parliament from its chamber and putting the deer in his pocket. The same impulse gives the length and breadth of Germany today with a sort of stormy joy in the contemplation of this old man, whose giant's frame and lion's heart, direct and simple yet lofty powers of mind and achievement, seem to belong to the heroic period of northern legend and myth, rather than to the modern constitutional shop-keeping state.

The silver dollar is a full legal tender for debts to any amount, except where the contract calls specifically for gold; but this does not affect the question of circulation. We must keep clearly in mind during this controversy that gold has been the sole standard of value in this country by law ever since 1873 and in fact for a much longer time. The repeal of the Sherman law and the introduction of a monetary change. It is the free silver men alone who are seeking to upset conditions which have long prevailed.—Springfield Republican.

The San Francisco, Cal., Examiner copies Editor Charles A. Dana of the New York Sun for stealing its poem of "Coney at the Bat," and changing the title to hide the transgression. It concludes as follows:

Mr. Dana is an old man, rich in honors and in coin, although he has not quite as many subscribers as he had a few years ago. But in the ordinary course of nature he will have to die some time, and we suggest the advantage of republishing before that melancholy event occurs. Otherwise we should think where that venerable journalist, accustomed to ocean breezes and feed drinks, will go.

Over four millions of emigrants had come to the United States from Ireland up to 1892. The present population of Ireland is 4,500,000. In 1841 it was 8,200,000. In forty-five years the province of Munster, which includes a majority of the counties of the south of Ireland, has lost 1,250,000 inhabitants by emigration. Ulster, in the north, has lost 1,000,000. Limerick, in the east, has lost 960,000, and Connaught in the west of Ireland, a more sparsely populated region, has lost 540,000.

It will be instructive to many of our readers to learn that the probate court office of Hampshire county at Northampton is one of the oldest in the state, its records going back to 1660, and its jurisdiction at one time embracing what are now Hampden, Hampshire, Berkshire and Franklin counties, with a part of Worcester county and several towns in Connecticut.

President Cleveland, so a reliable Washington correspondent states, is not opposed to an international bimetallic conference, but is holding back to force Europe to lead in the matter, falling in which he will next winter invite such a conference on behalf of the United States.

The general assembly of the Presbyterian church South, now in session at Dallas, Texas, is considering whether its members shall be subject to church trial and condemnation for Sabbath breaking, if they work on Sunday in a telephone exchange.

The silver craze is apparently yielding in the South, and, if the southern farmer could have state banks to borrow easily from, the West would be left alone for bimetalism. Whether wild-cat currency or a fifty-cent dollar is the worse, may be questioned.

The Atlanta, Ga., Constitution advocates the moral uses of shot guns and pistols in family life, and thinks there would be fewer divorces in the North if these effective checks upon domestic irregularity were there more freely availed of.

Thirty years ago last Sunday, May 26, 1865, the last army of the confederacy was surrendered at New Orleans by Gen. Kirby Smith to Gen. Canby. This date marks the military close of the war of the rebellion.

The latest in the way of postal discipline is the recent order of the Brooklyn, N. Y., postmaster that all subordinates must salute their superiors whenever they meet them.

Summer resort business is expected this season to be the best for years because of the freeing for other expenditure of the money released by the income tax decision.

City, Park and "Zoo."

What is a city without a park, and what is a park without a "Zoo"? Not things of much importance indeed. North Adams has besides its public park the Hoosac Valley park, and the Hoosac Valley park will soon have the "Zoo." President Richmond is about to fill the cages, dens and ponds again, and within a short time in this pleasant valley there will be once more the scream of the eagle, the chatter of the monkeys, the iridescent shoals of fancy fish, the burrows of prairie dogs, the bark of the fox and no doubt the proud and brilliant peacock, whose waving tail is as an object of profound admiration to the pupils of Darwin.

The Woodbine Vine is Gone.

The woodbine vine that has for several years so tenaciously clung to the imposing front of St. John's church was, it transpires, more the source of a nuisance than a thing of beauty, and it embraces the cold grey stone no more. The chattering sparrows must find another habitation. A less sturdy creeper will be planted to take its place. It will be as affectionate and equally esthetic and will provide no support for disturbing nests.

Many Bachelors Must Leave Maids.

(One of the assessors, whose duties give him an opportunity to learn more of our social life than falls to the lot of most of us, is authority for the discouraging statement that there is an incredible number of bachelor boarders in our city. Further, he says, the number is steadily increasing, and that there is a far larger lot than there was last year. And this in a city, which contains more beautiful young women than any other of twice its size in the state. Are the young men unappreciative, or are the young women too independent?

Mrs. Alberta Perrault.

Died, Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Alberta, the wife of Wilfred Perrault, at her home, 116 Eagle street, in the twenty-fourth year of her age. Mrs. Perrault was the daughter of Edward and Adeline Benoit, and was born in Montreal, coming to this country and to this town eight years ago with her parents. She suffered but a short illness and death was caused by typhoid fever. The deceased leaves a one-year-old son besides her husband to mourn her loss. The funeral will be held from the Notre Dame church tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock.

His Hand in the Derreck.

One of the men employed in Hodge & Ladams' foundry on Brooklyn street met with a very painful accident this morning. He was attending to the derreck, letting down a heavy post that was upon its chain, when the crank got away from him. As it flew out of one hand it hit the other knocking it into the gearing. The teeth of the wheels had crushed the little finger and were upon the next one by the time the man was able to stop and reverse the machine. He came to the office of Dr. M. M. Brown. The doctor thinks the finger can be saved.

"Only That He Was a Republican."

It turns out that the removal of Cattie Inspector Fuller was a surprise to everybody and also that the confirmation of the appointment of Dr. Kinneff could have been prevented if the republican members of the board had had their eyes open, as at the time the vote was taken Alderman Feeley was out of the room, thus making the board a tie. His Honor, when asked if he had any reason for the removal of Mr. Fuller, replied, "Only that he is a republican."—Pittsfield Eagle.

Weddings in June, Perhaps.

The bans of marriage of the following persons were published yesterday morning at St. Francis church: Patrick Nagles and Miss Margaret Whalen, P. H. McMahon and Miss Annie L. Riley, Edward Cann and Miss Margaret Green.

Mr. Lewis intends to get hold of an old-fashioned iron candlestick to be preserved with the candles as a reminder of a past day.

—Franklin W. Bartlett, rector of the Episcopal church in Williamstown, has presented Mr. Metzke with thirty copies of the hymn entitled "Evening Prayer," for the use of the Congregational choir. The words are by the Rev. Mr. Bartlett, and the music is by Mrs. Seelye of Williamstown.

—There are now about 107 students in the Bliss' Business college and the indications are that a large class will enter in the fall. The year will close June 21 and the fall term will open September 28. The management expects to enlarge the quarters in the fall, as more room is needed.

—The Ladies' Fidelity orchestra of Boston will furnish music for the social and dance to be given at Columbia opera house by Division 10, A. O. H., Wednesday evening. This is an excellent orchestra, as all know who heard it when it played for the Odd Fellows on one occasion. A feature of the entertainment will be a stump speech by Harry Brown.

—Chief Byars of the fire department visited the city yesterday and examined the buildings Saturday to examine the means of fire protection. He found the buildings as a whole very well supplied with apparatus for the extinguishment of fires and the protection of life. In one or two minor instances there was some negligence shown. These he will report so that the law governing these important matters may be fully complied with.

The baby carriers for bicycles are a nice but a dangerous thing. A considerate parent gave his boy, who is not much beyond the transition from skirts, a pleasant ride on his wheel Sunday. When on Summer street near the Congregational church another bicycle suddenly appeared and despite considerable dodging a collision happened. The boy was thrown but not injured. Without doubt he gave the accident immediate and serious thought for, when the dust was slapped from his clothing he said, "Papa, I think I'll walk the rest of the way."

In our report of the doings at board of trade meeting Mr. Couch was made to say that some members of the school committee had been fossa. This was incorrect. It was suggested at the meeting that the present trouble had grown out of the system of running schools by which the committee were doing the work of the superintendent. Mr. Couch said that it was caused by citizens insisting upon keeping a man in as superintendent who was a fossil, which obliged the committee to do just as it has, in the management of the schools.

C. H. Hubbard has been re-appointed local consul of the L. A. W. A subscription has been started to pay for two L. A. W. delegates to be put up at Braytonville. The boards put up by the league are called the "helping hand." They are in the form of a hand, the name of the town to which they point being on the forefinger, the number of miles is denoted by figures on the palm and the word miles appears below. This makes an attractive guideboard and they are being put up in all parts of the state by the L. A. W. There is a law by which the selection of towns can be compelled to erect guideboards, but they could not be obliged to use this design. Mr. Hubbard would like to be notified of all places in this vicinity where there ought to be guideboards.

THE BURGLARS CAPTURED.

Young Men Suspected by Chief Fuller When Arrested Confess All.

Very soon after Chief Fuller had been notified of the Johnson's store burglary Saturday and had made an investigation he had his mind made up as to who were the offenders. Saturday night he had warrants issued for the arrest of Thomas Bates and Abbott Leon Bryant, who have not yet reached their majority and whose homes are on River street extension. Yesterday morning Mr. Fuller arrested Bates and Officer Mack gathered in Bryant. The young men were not long in custody until the burglary was confessed and the stolen property located. The property was found at Bryant's home and consisted chiefly of cigars, about 200, plug tobacco, pipes and a ham. Just as was expected, the persons who committed the burglary had a complete knowledge of the store.

Dr. Dewey was arraigned in court this morning on the charge of larceny. Their cases were continued until June 4 and they were ordered to find sureties in $100 bonds each. They found bondsmen and were admitted to bail.

Mrs. Jenness Miller.

The young ladies of the grammar and high schools could not fail to hear Mrs. Jenness Miller who is to lecture at St. John's Parish hall tomorrow afternoon and evening at 8 and 8 o'clock. We say this because the following institutions have had her lecture before them at the regular fee: Wellesley college, Vassar college, Lasell seminary, Andover, Mass.; Mt. Holyoke seminary, Mass.; Mills seminary, Oakland, Cal.; Oberlin college, public schools, Toronto, Canada; State Normal school, West Chester, Pa., and others of well known reputation.

Pretty Smart.

They call themselves pretty smart at North Adams, but a stranger slipped into town the other day and passed three forged checks of $100 each, purporting to be given by a local merchant and when wanted he was to be found. The merchants who cashed these checks are $40.50 out. The swindler is out too—out of town.—Hampshire Gazette. Yes, we are pretty smart up here, but we can't be expected to beat thieves and forgers at all times.

Baptists on Their Way.

About 170 delegates from New England on their way to the Baptist May anniversary held at Saratoga, N. Y., came into town at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon and were served with dinner in the Baptist church by the Ladies' Missionary society at fifty cents a plate. This is the eighth annual stop that these delegates have made here for dinner. They came in a special train and left immediately after dinner. The delegates from this church are Rev. F. D. Penney, E. S. Wilkinson, J. M. Canedy, V. A. Whitaker and George M. Darby.

More Noise Than Fire.

A fire alarm was rung in from box 41, at about 10.30 yesterday morning. Steam was off at the L. L. Brown paper mill and the church bells were ringing, so that neither the whistle or bell in the village could be sounded, leaving the Renfrew whistle to tell alone. A few firemen drew the cart up the Crandall street hill to the barn behind W. F. Davis' residence, which is now unoccupied. A hand hose put out the fire, the firemen finding it unnecessary to unwind the hose.

Samon Held in $1000.

The trial of Simon Samon, Jacob Ennis and Frank Schloster, for dangerously assaulting Rudolph Wittig April 19, was held before Judge Bixby at 9 o'clock this morning. Lawyer Parkhurst appeared for the defendants. Schloster and Ennis were discharged, the evidence showing that Samon did the stabbing. As Wittig is now out of danger, Samon's bail was reduced to $1000 and he was held to appear before the superior court on the second Monday of July. There was no evidence to show Samon's guilt, except statements made by himself to the officers. The people in Wittig's party did not recognize any of the prisoners on the night of the assault on account of the darkness. On the evening in question, Wittig, August Lockwood and Gustave Walton, went to the Pole's house on hearing sounds of festivity and were attacked. Wittig was stabbed in the left hip-bone. Lockwood was beaten with a club, and Walton was stabbed on the left arm. Frank Feidler, who joined them, was knocked out with a club. Samon is a bright looking young fellow of about twenty.

He has a black eye, a swollen nose and bruises on his right wrist and shoulder. ## WILLIAMSTOWN.

A New Society.

A new society has been started at Williamstown, "The Gargoyles," which is to attract its share of attention in college life. It has long been felt that men who might do more for their college in the way of athletics or otherwise have confined themselves too closely to their rooms. Twenty men are chosen from the junior class by the twenty seniors, after every Decoration day baseball game, on the Thompson fence. The men chosen are those who have been most prominent in either the social, literary, high standing or athletic life in the college. The following men have been chosen from '95, as charter members: Alden, Allen, Bent, Downer, Draper, Eaton, Ide, Goodwin, Furman, Jeffery, Moseley, Kimball, Ogilvie, Heald, Perkins, Rahl, Rudd, Russell, Sweet.

TRAMPS' RENDEZVOUS

Sheltered Body of a Man Who May Have Been Murdered.

Had Probably Been Dead Over a Week.

Mystery Which is Puzzling Residents of a Woonsocket Suburb.

WOONSOCKET, May 27.—In a deserted barn on the cross roads in North Smithfield, two miles from this city, was found, yesterday afternoon, the decomposed body of a man.

The barn is quite a distance from any dwelling. The body was discovered by Walter A. Whipple, who has charge of the farm, and Willis Ballou, a neighbor.

The body was dressed in new dark pants, light colored shirt and black necktie and nearly new shoes and stockings. Nearby lay a pipe and a cloth cap. On a beam overhead was a straw hat. An old overcoat was folded carefully over the upper part of the body.

The man was about 5 ft. 6 in. tall. He had gray hair and mustache. He must have weighed 150 pounds, and was Between Fifty and Fifty-Five Years Old. The coroner was summoned and gave his opinion that the man had been dead a week or 10 days.

The barn is a great rendezvous for tramps. Willis Ballou, who found the body, said that people had been in and out of the barn all the time, but no one reported anything unusual there.

Last Thursday night two boys went in, struck a match, and saw what they supposed to be a man lying asleep. The man they saw lay in a different position than the body found yesterday.

Saturday night a neighbor heard a great outcry in the barn.

It is the general opinion that the man did not die in the barn, but that the body was brought there by some one. The man was not dressed like a tramp. There will be no further developments until the medical examiner comes to the place.

Taps Sounded.

Boston, May 27.—General M. T. Donohoe, superintendent of the reformatory at Rindford Island, died yesterday from an attack of paralysis received a week ago. General Donohoe was born in Lowell in 1838, and was a graduate of Holy Cross college, Worcester. At the breaking out of the war he enlisted in company C, Third New Hampshire regiment, and was elected captain. He was severely wounded at Fort Harrison in 1864, and was especially mentioned for gallant conduct on the field. During the last year of the war he was breveted brigadier general for gallant conduct.

Failed of Its Purpose.

Augusta, May 27.—The act of the legislature of 1893, authorizing the state assessors to deduct a certain per cent of the taxation of savings banks on investments made in the state of Maine for the purpose of offering an inducement to such banks to invest their capital in this state instead of the west, has not proved the success hoped for. It is found that there is very little diminution in western speculation in 1894 over the investments of 1893.

Mrs. Hoff's Change of Mind.

WESTFIELD, Mass., May 27.—News has been received by the relatives of Mrs. Hoff, whose hasty marriage to Arthur Hoff of New York, 30 years her junior, recently, aroused the opposition of her relatives and resulted in her incarceration in an asylum that she has been released from that institution, and is desirous of having the marriage annulled.
